Dr. Raymond J. Dingledine, PhD

*Professor and former Chair, Dept. of Pharmacology and Chemical Biology
Emory University School of Medicine*

Dr. Ray Dingledine is a Professor and former Chairman of the Department of Pharmacology and Chemical Biology at Emory University School of Medicine. Dr. Dingledine received a BS from Michigan State University in Biochemistry in 1971. Ray received his Ph.D. in pharmacology under Avram Goldstein at Stanford in 1975. He received postdoctoral training from Leslie Iversen and John Kelly at Cambridge UK (1975-77), then Per Andersen at Oslo (1977-78). He then joined the Department of Pharmacology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1978 and rose to Professor. He moved to Emory University in 1992 as Chair of Pharmacology, a job he held for 25 years, and for 11 years also served as Executive Associate Dean for research in the School of Medicine.

His research focuses on the roles of inflammation in epilepsy. He co-founded two start-up companies to address unmet clinical needs, Neurop Inc (clinical stage with a focus on pain and ischemia) and Pyrefin Inc (preclinical with a focus on anti-inflammatory drugs). He is an elected member of the US National Academy of Medicine, the Norwegian Academy of Science and Letters, and the US National Academy of Inventors.
